MRS. REID ENTERTAINS FOR GUEST, MISS DEVNEY

Mrs. R. C. Reid entertained at five hundred at her home at the corner of Lea avenue and Second street yesterday afternoon, complimentary to her guest, Miss Devney, of Indianapolis, Ind. The color scheme of Mrs. Reid's home is red and green and this idea was advanced in the decorations and carried out in the refreshments, making the features of the party noticeable throughout the afternoon. Five hundred was the name of the afternoon and six tables were filled with the players. Hand painted plates were given as guest and high score prizes, the winners being the guest of honor and Mrs. Phil Helmig. The refreshments were red ice cream and green cherries and strawberries and cake in the colors of the afternoon.

Prosecute Fish Dealers.

San Francisco, June 9.—When California orange growers dumped large quantities of fruit into the sea, in order to maintain prices, a cry of protest went up all over the country which put a stop to the practice. Lately it has developed that San Francisco fish companies and dealers have adopted similar practices in order to hold up the public, and several offenders have been indicted and will be vigorously prosecuted under the Cartwright law.

Fish are very plentiful in these waters and the supply is much greater than the demand at the present high prices, which poor people are unable to pay. During the recent investigation it was shown that as much as fourteen tons of good fish were sold daily to glue and fertilizer companies at $5 a ton, while the remainder of the catch was disposed of to customers at from fifteen to eighteen cents a pound.

Expect Big Silk Crop.

San Francisco, June 9.—Reports from Yokohama state that conditions are favorable for a "bumper" silk crop for the 1910-11 season. While it is rather too early as yet for much in the way of a definite report on the new crop, advices from reliable authorities in the Yokohama market were received to the effect that the total crop will amount to 40,000 bales if not more. It is stated further that weather conditions have been favorable to the new crop and if they continue, the total yield will be still larger than the above amount. Conservative members of the trade are of the opinion that the estimates will have to be revised later on, although they believe that the Japanese crop will be a good one and there will be little possibility of a shortage.

FLAG DAY.

A Proclamation by the Governor. The stars and stripes were adopted as the flag of the United States on the 14th day of June, A. D. 1777, and the commendable custom has since grown up of declaring its anniversary Flag Day, in commemoration of that great event. It is fitting that at least one day in each year be set aside on which exercises should be held in public places in honor of the flag, the emblem of our great nation, and that at such exercises and in the newspapers the story of the making of the first flag by Betsy Ross, the history of its adoption by the Continental Congress, and a brief outline of the history of our country subsequent thereto be given telling how the nation, of which it is the symbol, have grown from three millions of people, scattered along the Atlantic sea-coast to nearly ninety millions of free men; how the boundaries of our country have extended from the Alleghany Mountains to the Pacific Ocean, and the isles beyond the seas; how we have grown to be one of the strongest powers in the world, and how we have always sought to throw our great influence as a nation into the scale in favor of good government and a general uplifting of all down-trodden people.

NOW THEREFORE, I, William J. Mills, Governor of the Territory of New Mexico, do hereby declare TUESDAY, JUNE 14th, 1910, that being the 133rd anniversary of the adoption of the stars and stripes as the Flag of the United States of America to be FLAG DAY, and do hereby request that on said day the national flag be raised on all school houses, and public buildings in the Territory of New Mexico, and on as many private homes and places of business as possible; that the press, which always rescues a large majority of our citizens briefly detail to their readers the history of the flag with a view of fostering and increasing the patriotism of our people.

WITNESS my hand and the Great Seal of the Territory of New Mexico.

Concrete Fence Posts.

Concrete—cement, sand, gravel and water combined in proper proportions—has become one of the leading building materials of the day. It has shown its worth as a substitute for wood; houses built entirely of cement, the trimmings and supports of wood being merely for decorative effect; it is used by the Government, by railroads, by farmers in hundreds of ways, either alone or reinforced; and has been found to produce even good fence posts. Its moderate cost, its durability, the ease with which it is handled, the wide distribution of the sand, gravel and stone of which it is composed, commend it to the consideration of all builders.

As a material for fence posts concrete has been found to possess but few of the disadvantages of wood, to have practically all its advantages, and to be superior in some respects of timber. Of course, the first cost may be more or less than the best wooden posts, but that depends on local conditions—the timber supply, the deposits of sand, gravel, and rock, and the skill of workman. If manufactured as usual and cured for three months concrete posts are as good as the best wooden posts. After three years wooden posts possess only one-third to one-half their original strength whereas concrete grows stronger with age and needs no repairs as neither weather nor fire injures it. Under ordinary circumstances concrete posts will last forever; and even if in the course of years a few should be broken by unusual strain, it is cheaper to replace them than to replace an entire fence of decayed posts with a material with the same lack of durability.

Concrete posts are attractive in appearance because of their uniform size and color, and can be made either square, triangular or round, either straight or tapering towards the top. They can be purchased by dealers or made at home, and this latter plan together with suggestions as to the construction of the fence after the posts are made and cured is the theme of Farmers' Bulletin No. 403 recently issued by the Department of Agriculture. The author takes up in detail the selection of sand, gravel, crushed rock, and cement; the choice of molds—either steel or wooden, and if wooden, the proper way to make square or triangular molds. Reinforcement—the insertion of steel rods or wire in the molds when making the posts, is discussed as to the principle involved and the kinds of reinforcement best suited to certain needs. The work of mixing, molding and curing is explained with minuteness, and the variety of styles which can be produced described. Under "fence building" is given instruction as to setting the posts, attaching the wire, stretching the fencing, and the use of line anchors. Nine illustrations give detailed drawings of molds, methods, and results. The pamphlet closes with a warning to persons intending to buy post molds, either steel or wooden, to beware of traveling agents who are selling molds or rights for the sale or use of their respective molds. No dealings should be had with these agents except when fully satisfied through reports from one's banker or lawyer that the company represented by the agent is reliable and that the agent is their authorized representative. Patents have been issued on special types of reinforcement, and they cannot be generally used without danger of infringing patent rights; but none of the simple forms described in the bulletin is patented or patentable and they are just as good as the special forms advertised and recommended by the agents. No one need hesitate to use the simple form of construction recommended, for it has been in common use in all countries for a number of years, and all claim that the general use of reinforced concrete fence posts is controlled by patent rights are unjustified and untrue.

Compiled Ordinances of the City of Roswell, except that all supplies for the fire department shall be purchased by and under the direction of the City Supervisor, and he shall, together with the Chief of the Fire Department, make recommendations to the Mayor and City Council of the number of persons necessary to be employed in said Fire Department, and shall employ the paid members of said Department.

SECTION 4.—The office of Street Foreman is hereby abolished. The City Supervisor is authorized, by and with the consent of the Mayor and City Council, when in his judgment it is necessary, to employ special assistants in the department of streets.

SECTION 5.—There is hereby appropriated out of any funds belonging to the city, not otherwise appropriated, the sum of $50.00 per month to pay the salary of said City Supervisor.

SECTION 6.—This ordinance shall take effect and be in force from and after its publication as required by law.
